NEW APPROACHES TO ASSESSMENT IN HEALTH PROFESSIONS EDUCATION

This year's conference invites presentations and discussions of academic developments on assessment, faculty development, and inter-professional education in medical education. We invite you to submit an abstract for short oral presentation, poster, and/or workshop.

The Association for Medical Schools in Europe (AMSE) is the organisation promoting and developing the cooperation between Medical Schools in Europe to enhance and ensure the quality of their activities. As the modern, programmatic and transformative assessment standards are crucially important to ensuring that medical education in Europe meets the needs of the future health care, the joint EBMA and AMSE Conference will be the perfect place to meet, start and further develop cooperation between the experts in assessment, including Deans, curriculum developers and health professions teachers. Additionally, the Polish Medical Schools are currently implementing new teaching and assessment standards, which will also contribute new ideas to the debate and discussion in this exciting field.
